Carelessness Takes Toll

During the first three months of this year there were 214 people killed in rural Missouri traffic accidents—WHY?

The Superintendent of the State Highway Patrol had this to say regarding the reasons for the tragic death toll, "Carelessness, disobeying traffic laws, imprudent speeds and showing a down-right disregard for other people's rights and privileges can be largely blamed."

Col. Hugh H. Waggoner said that carelessness covered a multitude of sins in traffic conduct. "Drinking driving, failure to yield the right-of-way, failure of pedestrians to observe traffic regulations, failure of drivers to allow for pedestrian misconduct and lack of respect for others all come under the heading of carelessness," he added.

The Patrol chief stated that disobeying traffic laws was an absolute abuse of the privilege to drive and a prime factor in the causes for most traffic accidents. "Last year the Highway Patrol investigated 18,684 traffic accidents in rural areas of the state," Waggoner said. "It is well to note that over 30,000 traffic law violations were recorded in the investigations."

The Superintendent said the two most vicious types of traffic accidents were motor vehicle head-on collisions and automobiles plunging off roadways out of control. The truth of his statement is borne out by the fact that there were 11,348 motor vehicle collisions last year in rural Missouri killing 350 people. Ranking second for violence and deaths, were automobiles plunging off roadways with 6,038 accidents killing 323 people.

"It is plain to see that accidents of this type are the result of carelessness and breaking traffic laws," Waggoner said. "When two vehicles collide someone was certainly in violation by being in the wrong lane of traffic. When an automobile plunges off the road, inattention or speed is usually the reason. These are two of the outstanding reasons WHY there is such a tragic traffic death toll each year in Missouri."

The Stroller was pleased to have a new sidewalk to stroll upon in front of the Union Building. And it's always reassuring to know that it has a nice fence so students won't fall off the walk. It lends that quaint old-fashioned look to harmonize with the appearance of the instructors.

The Stroller warns all inmates of Residence Hall to be on the look-out for non-qualified new residents. The two boys who were caught trying to sneak into the dorm made the statement, "Well, you got to admit, it was quite an idea!"

While sticking her head out the window at a recent Tri-Sig-Sig Tau pinning, the Stroller was amazed at the big surprise ending. He hopes this giving away of diamonds instead of pins doesn't become contagious.

There may be advantages to being an athlete, but the word received by the Stroller is that the athletic scholarships are more "hard-work-ships." At least this was what she was told by some of the "scholars" who went without food for a week because their meal tickets were taken away.

The Stroller has heard that the telephone company is sponsoring many of the movies and education features being shown at the College, but the Stroller suggests that if the telephone people are really interested in our college that they put a pay-phone in the Classroom Building and do something about the impossible phone system in Freshman Hall. He understands that most boys don't even bother to ask freshmen girls for a date because they know they can't phone them. But then, who has time for dates with all the term papers and tests looming in the near future?

Anachronism?

Not really. 'Cause if Coke had been around in Caesar's day, Caesar would have treated himself to the sparkling good taste, the welcome lift of Cokel! Caesar's motto—"I came, I saw, I conquered." Pretty good motto for Coke too—the prime favorite in over 100 countries today!
